DAY 01 NEWARK/HONG KONG

1:10 AM Depart Newark via Cathay Pacific Airlines flight # 899 direct service for Hong Kong. Total flying time: 15 hours, 50 minutes. Set your watch 12 hours ahead.

Hong Kong has become a world-class city by fusing Chinese traditional with Western customs. At its foundation, quite literally, is the ancient art of fung shui, the belief in luck provided by the elements of wind (fung) and water (shui). Neither village houses nor the landmark Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank headquarters gets built without approval from a fung shui master.

Religion also influences everyday life. The city is dotted with temple - bright and dazzling structures like the one at Wong Tai Sin, as well as small personal shrines laden with incense and offerings.

DAY 02 HONG KONG/HANOI

6:00 AM Arrive Hong Kong, the Jewel of the Orient and one of the world's most exciting destinations. With its unique blend of 20th-century commercialism and centuries-old Chinese culture, it offers visitors a dazzling and unforgettable experience.

After completing custom and immigration formalities you will be met outside the baggage claim area by your guide and escorted to a waiting vehicle. Your guide will be holding a sign marked 'Your Name'.

Visit Wong Tai Sin Temple. The Temple Complex is a gloriously colorful spectacle, founded on the lower slopes of the Kowloon Hills more than half a century ago. Crucial family decisions are often resolved by reference to the deity, and the temple's host of fortune-tellers have helped make this the territory's most popular temple.

Hanoi has a great deal of charm, with ochre-colored colonial style buildings, tree-lined boulevards, elegant squares and verdant public parks. Hanoi means "within a river bend". Established as a defensive citadel in the 8th century, Hanoi has had at least 7 name changes. In the past Hanoi was first chosen by King Ly Thai To as the capital of the country and was named Thang Long (Ascending Dragon) in 1010. Through several successive dynasties, it remained as the country's capital city, the heart and soul of the whole nation, and has borne a variety of names, including Dong Kinh (Eastern Capital) from which the Europeans derived the name they eventually applied to all of northern Vietnam, Tonkin. The city was finally named Hanoi (the city in a bend of the river) by Emperor Tu Duc (Nguyen Dynasty) in 1831. From 1902 to 1953, Hanoi served as the capital of French Indochina.

Visit the Temple of Literature, which dates back to 1070 and is dedicated to the cult of Confucius. The Temple of Literature was the first university of Vietnam.

Complete your day with a cyclo tour through the Old Quarter. In the early 13th century guilds evolved from the collection of tiny workshop villages which clustered around the walled Palace. Artisans and guilds lived and worked together to produce and sell a wide variety of items. As time progressed this area became a collection of narrow streets each named after the product sold, including Silk Street and Gold Street.

This evening enjoy a traditional Vietnamese water puppet performance. Witness an ancient art form the way it was meant to be seen. Vietnamese water puppetry dates back more than a thousand years and the stories and tales offer a rare insight in to life in the countryside. The puppeteers who remain hidden knee-deep in water behind a bamboo screen skillfully maneuver their puppets with a series of underwater strings and pulleys. Dragons spout fire as water snakes are chased by irate farmers and inquisitive children. All the while traditional music and a compeer keep the audience enthralled.

Afterwards you may wish to dine at the upscale La Verticale. The restaurant offers a great selection of French and Vietnamese fusion. You can enjoy the delicacies in a villa built during the 1930s based on French and Indochina architecture. If interested, your guide can assist with making reservations.

Afterwards, begin your overland journey to Saigon. The drive will take approximately 4 hours.

Saigon is the name of a river flowing through the city. This river gave birth to the Saigon - Cho Lon Port and the most buoyant riverside city in Southeast Asia as early as the 18th Century. Today Ho Chi Minh City is the largest city in Vietnam and one of the three biggest municipalities in the country (the others being Hanoi and Haiphong). Although the city is commonly called Ho Chi Minh City, many of its citizens, even officials, still refer to the downtown area as Saigon.

Journey to the Cu Chi Tunnels. The main "highway" is thronged with bicycles, green paddy fields where local peasants work and children lead buffaloes, and people making their way to the market. It's hard to believe that you are entering what was a war zone of immense strategic importance. Cu Chi is famous for its 120 miles of underground tunnels, used by the Vietcong forces to fight both the French and the Americans. The Cu Chi tunnels will give you a fascinating insight into the tenacity and courage of the Viet Cong forces during the war.

Return to Saigon and visit the historical Post Office with its notable decorated ceiling designed by Gustaf Eiffel of Tower fame, the Notre Dame Cathedral, circa 1880 and the former Presidential Palace, once the headquarters for the Saigon government during the American War in Vietnam.

Continue to the War Remnant Museum. The museum comprises a series of eight themed rooms in several buildings, with period military equipment located within a walled yard. The military equipment include a UH-1 "Huey" helicopter, an F-5A fighter, a BLU-82 "Daisy Cutter" bomb, M48 Patton bomb, and an A-1 attack bomber.

Complete your touring with a visit to the outside of the Opera House, the City Hall and the Rex Rooftop Bar (located at the top of the Rex Hotel). The Rooftop Bar was made famous and popular by American troops during the Vietnam War when its conference room hosted a daily press conference, by the MACV, derisively named The Five O'clock Follies. The Rooftop Bar was a well-known hangout spot for military officials and war correspondents.

This evening you may wish to dine at the Temple Club, one of the most atmospheric and romantic spots in town. The Temple Club is an old Chinese Temple (1900s) with original wood and masonry. The cuisine is standard Vietnamese from all parts of the country.

DAY 13 SIEM REAP

Meals Included: Breakfast, Lunch

At approximately 5:30 AM depart the Grand Hotel D'Angkor.

Enjoy sunrise at the incredible Angkor Wat Temple Complex.

Angkor Wat is one of the largest temple complexes in the world. The Temple is dedicated to the god Vishnu, from whom the Emperor was considered a reincarnation. Essentially a three-layered pyramid, Angkor Wat has 64 meter high towers at the corners of each storey. The marvelous bas-relief of Angkor Wat's outer wall of the lower picture gallery depicts scenes of the Ramayana. Angkor Wat represents the high-point in the evolution of Khmer architecture. The ruins seen today represent successive capitals constructed by a dozen kings between the 9th and 12th centuries. Central to the civilization of Angkor was belief in the God-King, an originally Indian concept, which was adopted by Jayavarman II when he became Angkor's first king in 802.

At approximately 8:30 AM return to the hotel for breakfast.

ANGKOR WAT

After breakfast travel outside the city to explore the picturesque Ta Prohm Temple. The Temple is overgrown and the roots of the trees are , pushing between the huge stone blocks of the temple – a sight you will remember forever.

Ta Prohm was built by Jayavarman VII as a shrine for his mother and as a monastery devoted to its upkeep. A stele referred to the temple as a monument "whose limbs are adorned with gold and resplendent with gems". The magnificent roots of a tree pushing between the huge stone blocks of the temple have been left that way intentionally, at the suggestion of French art conservators Bernard Groslier and George Coedes, who devoted years to the understanding and preservation of the treasures at Angkor. The sight of the tree's powerful embrace of the stone evokes feelings a visitor will very likely remember forever.

This afternoon drive about 45 minutes into the countryside, stopping en route to visit a local village. Enjoy a 90 minute boat ride on Tonle Sap Lake, also known as the Great Lake of Cambodia. You will see many communities of floating houses and boats, including schools, markets, police stations, children playing and swimming, and fresh water aquariums with different fish species displayed. The living conditions in this area are extremely basic. Clean, fresh drinking water is a luxury for a few villages.

After the boat ride transfer to an eco-tourism site where you can enjoy a cocktail and watch the sunset over Tonle Sap Lake.

This evening you may wish to dine at Viroth's Restaurant (a delightful garden restaurant). Enjoy delicious Khmer food in a sophisticated setting. Your guide can assist with any reservation requests.

DAY 14 SIEM REAP

Meals Included: Breakfast, Lunch

This morning visit Banteay Srei, the birthplace of Khmer classical style architecture. This is a small temple complex with impressive carvings.

Also visit Banteay Samre, one of the most complete sites at Angkor, due to restoration using the method of "anastylosis". The name Samre refers to an ethnic group of mountain people who inhabited the region at the base of Phnom Kulen and were probably related to the Khmers. No inscriptions have been found for this temple, but the style of most of the architecture is of the classic art of the middle period similar to Angkor Wat. The proportions of Banteay Samre are splendid. A unique feature is an interior moat with laterite paving, which when filled with water must have given an ethereal atmosphere to the temple.

Enjoy lunch at a local restaurant.

This afternoon visit the impressive Angkor Thom (which means Great City). Angkor Thom is the cultural home of the Khmer (Cambodian) people and one of the ancient wonders of the world. This vast network of Wats (temples) dating back to the 7th century is the center of some of the most important structures, statues, and carvings produced in the name of the Buddhist and Hindu religions. The Great City covers an area of four square miles. The total length of the wall surrounding the city is 7.5 miles. Incorporated into the wall are a number of earlier buildings: Baphuon and Phimeanakas. The city is dominated by a mania for colossal size, punctuated with enormous numbers of towers and reliefs.

Board an elephant near the Bayon and enjoy a 20-30 minute ride to the South Gate of Angkor Thom.

The Bayon is an awesome sight. At first glance, the complex seems a shapeless mass of stone. Suddenly, further scrutiny reveals a face, enigmatic and silent, watching with half-closed eyes. Soon, another face is made out, and another, and still yet another, until they are all around - silent, heavy, and impressive, staring from a primitive remote past.

Afterwards embark on a rowing boat and enjoy a sunset cruise around Angkor Thom. Hi-Tea is served on board. Visit Prasat Chrung Temple.

ALLURING ASIA

At the Belmond La Residence Phou Vao reservations for a Mountain View Room have been confirmed for the following 3 nights.

Positioned atop a hill, with stunning mountain views, La Résidence Phou Vao is an unforgettable place to stay. Its calm, tranquil ambience echoes that of the sleepy World Heritage town of Luang Prabang —former royal capital of Laos. The hotel is known for its wonderful French-influenced local cuisine. Relax, soak up the atmosphere and enjoy stepping back into a more gracious era.

Laos, also known as the "Land of a Million Elephants," is one of the most unknown and least developed countries of Indochina. Maybe this is due to the fact that it is the only Southeast Asian country without access to the sea, or maybe because Laos has never played a significant role in the world history and had disappeared in the 19th century from the maps for a considerable time.

Laos is a country of soft voices. Uncomplainingly the Lao people bowed to their fate during the Vietnam War when the American pilots dropped most of their bombs on Laos - overall more than Germany was bombed with during World War II.

The Laotian people are predominantly Buddhist and are very friendly and hospitable people. The national religion of the Laotian people is Theravada Buddhism, which was introduced into Laos in the 14th Century. Thus, about 2,000 ancient pagodas in Laos are not only worshipping places but also socio-cultural institutions.

Luang Prabang is rich in cultural heritage, known as the seat of Lao culture, with monasteries, monuments, traditional costumes and surrounded by natural beauty.

According to the Luang Prabang legend, the first name of Luang Prabang was Muang Swa, named after King Khun Xua around the 8th Century. Later known as Xieng Dong and Xieng Thong. During the reign of King Fa Ngum between 1354 and 1372 A.D. Xieng Dong and Xieng Thong cities were renamed Luang Prabang in the name of the gold image of Buddha, The Phrabang. Luang Prabang was the capital of the Lane Xang Kingdom from 1354 A.D. The capital was then transferred to Vientiane city in 1560 A.D.

This evening enjoy a baci ceremony where gentle villages offer their foreign visitors tidings of good luck for their travels. After the ceremony, enjoy beautiful classical and folk dances, and take part in Laos' social dance "Lamvong" with the local people. You're also invited to try some local Laotian food such as sticky rice, local canapés & tea.

Later this morning visit Wat Visoun, known as the 'Watermelon Stupa' on account of its stupa's unusual spherical shape. Also visit Wat Xieng Thong Temple. Wat Xieng Thong is situated on the banks of the Mekong River and was constructed in 1559/1560 A.D. by King Say Setthathirath. Wat Xieng Thong is the most beautiful among all monasteries of Luang Prabang and represents the typical Lao art style. Here you will see many old and beautiful religious artifacts of the period between the 16th & 20th centuries and some ancient masterpieces of Lao art.

Afterwards, visit the National Museum (the former Royal Palace), which houses the collections of valuables including the famous Prabang Buddha statue and gifts received from foreign dignitaries.

Enjoy lunch at a local restaurant.

This afternoon visit the Traditional Arts and Ethnology Centre, a non-profit museum and resource center dedicated to the ethnic cultures of Laos. Its goal is to promote understanding, appreciation, and preservation of Laos' ethnic cultures.

Complete your day by climbing the 328 steps up to the top of Mount Phousi for an enjoyable exploration of the sacred, gilded stupa. Enjoy the breathtaking panoramic view of the Mekong River and city at sunset.

This evening you may wish to dine at L'Elephant Restaurant, which serves authentic French and Laotian cuisine, prepared with local market ingredients and the freshest produce from its own gardens. Your guide can assist with making reservations.

DAY 17 LUANG PRABANG

Meals Included: Breakfast, Lunch

Drive overland along the Mekong River bank to visit the mysterious Pak Ou Caves. Pak Ou Caves are located at the junction of the Mekong River and Ou River. The caves consist of two caves Tham Thing; the lower cave and Tham Phum. Here you will find numerous Buddha images of various styles, ages and sizes.

Enjoy lunch at a local restaurant along the banks of the Mekong River.

After lunch enjoy a 2 hour downstream cruise on the Mekong River to Luang Prabang. The river is the national highway of Laos. Cruise past forested banks and riverside villages. The craggy mountain scenery is breathtaking with overhanging cliffs above the swift flowing river. En route, traditional Lao villages are barely visible behind a screen of foliage. Slender canoes bobbing by the shore and bamboo poles and floats mark the location of nets and fish traps.

Visit Ban Muangkeo where you will see the locals collecting river weed to make one of the most distinctive snacks of Luang Prabang.

You'll also stop to visit the charming spot of Ban Xieng Mene. The small district of Xiang men houses several temples worth visiting, including Wat Xiengmen and the once-important temple of Wat Long Khoun. Neither the most awe-inspiring nor grand of temples but definitely worth taking a look at.

DAY 18 LUANG PRABANG/CHIANG MAI

Meals Included: Breakfast

At 8:30 AM depart the hotel and drive to Ban Xang Khong Village, famous for their beautiful weaving. There are a number of homes to visit where you can see weaving and dyeing. Those with an understanding of the ikat process of fabric dyeing (threads tied and dyed prior to weaving) will be interested to add “mut mee” (the Lao word for ikat) to their vocabulary.

Samples of a wide variety of natural dyes and the colors obtained are on display, as are all the steps from feeding the silkworms through reeling the silk thread from the cocoons, cleaning, degumming, spinning and finally to weaving. They have an extensive selection of weavings on display and most are for sale. You can view some of the traditional pieces being made – some with silks subtly colored with natural dyes, others, with chemical dyes which give stronger colors.

In addition to the silk weaving, you can visit a small papermaking facility. Handmade paper is produced and turned into carry bags and gift boxed.

1:15 PM Depart Luang Prabang via Lao Airlines flight # 635 direct service to Chiang Mai, Thailand. Total flying time: 1 hour.

Chiang Mai (New City) was founded in 1296 by King Mengrai as the capital of the first independent Thai state, Lanna Thai (Kingdom of One Million Rice Fields). It became the cultural and religious center of the northern Tai, those who had migrated from southern China to dwell in Thailand, and remained so throughout the turbulent period of recurring Burmese attacks. The Burmese finally captured Chiang Mai in 1556 and occupied it until King Taksin retook the city in 1775, driving the Burmese forces back to near the present border. Burmese influence on religion, architecture, language, cuisine, and culture, remains strong. The city stands on the Ping River, a major tributary of the Chao Phraya River.

2:15 PM Arrive Chiang Mai, the second largest city in Thailand and the center of folk art.

After clearing customs and immigrations you will be met outside the baggage claim area by your guide and escorted to a waiting vehicle for your transfer to the Four Seasons Chiang Mai. Your guide will be holding a sign marked ‘Your Name’.

At the Four Seasons Chiang Mai reservations for a Lanna Pavilion have been confirmed for the following 2 nights.

The Four Seasons Chiang Mai is a celebration of Thai Culture. From the ceaseless activity of daily life to the verdant Mae Rim Valley swathed in green. Set amidst 20 acres of landscaped gardens and observed lily ponds, lakes and terraced rice fields, the natural setting whispers adventure to some and respite to others. The Resort's architecture respectfully reflects the style of the "Lanna" Kingdom, an agricultural empire of foothill villages unified in the 13th-century under King Mengrai.

Lanna - which means "a million rice fields" - represented the heyday of northern Thai culture. Borrowing from the neighboring customs of Laos, Burma and Yunnan, China, its people developed distinctive traditions that have become synonymous with rustic Thai-style charm. From elevated teak houses to stenciled red lacquerware, they remain the signature of the north today.

DAY 19 CHIANG MAI

Meals Included: Breakfast, Lunch

At 8:30 AM be ready in the lobby of the Four Seasons Chiang Mai in preparation for a full day of exploring Thailand's hilltribe villages. Travel 3 hours to Thaton.

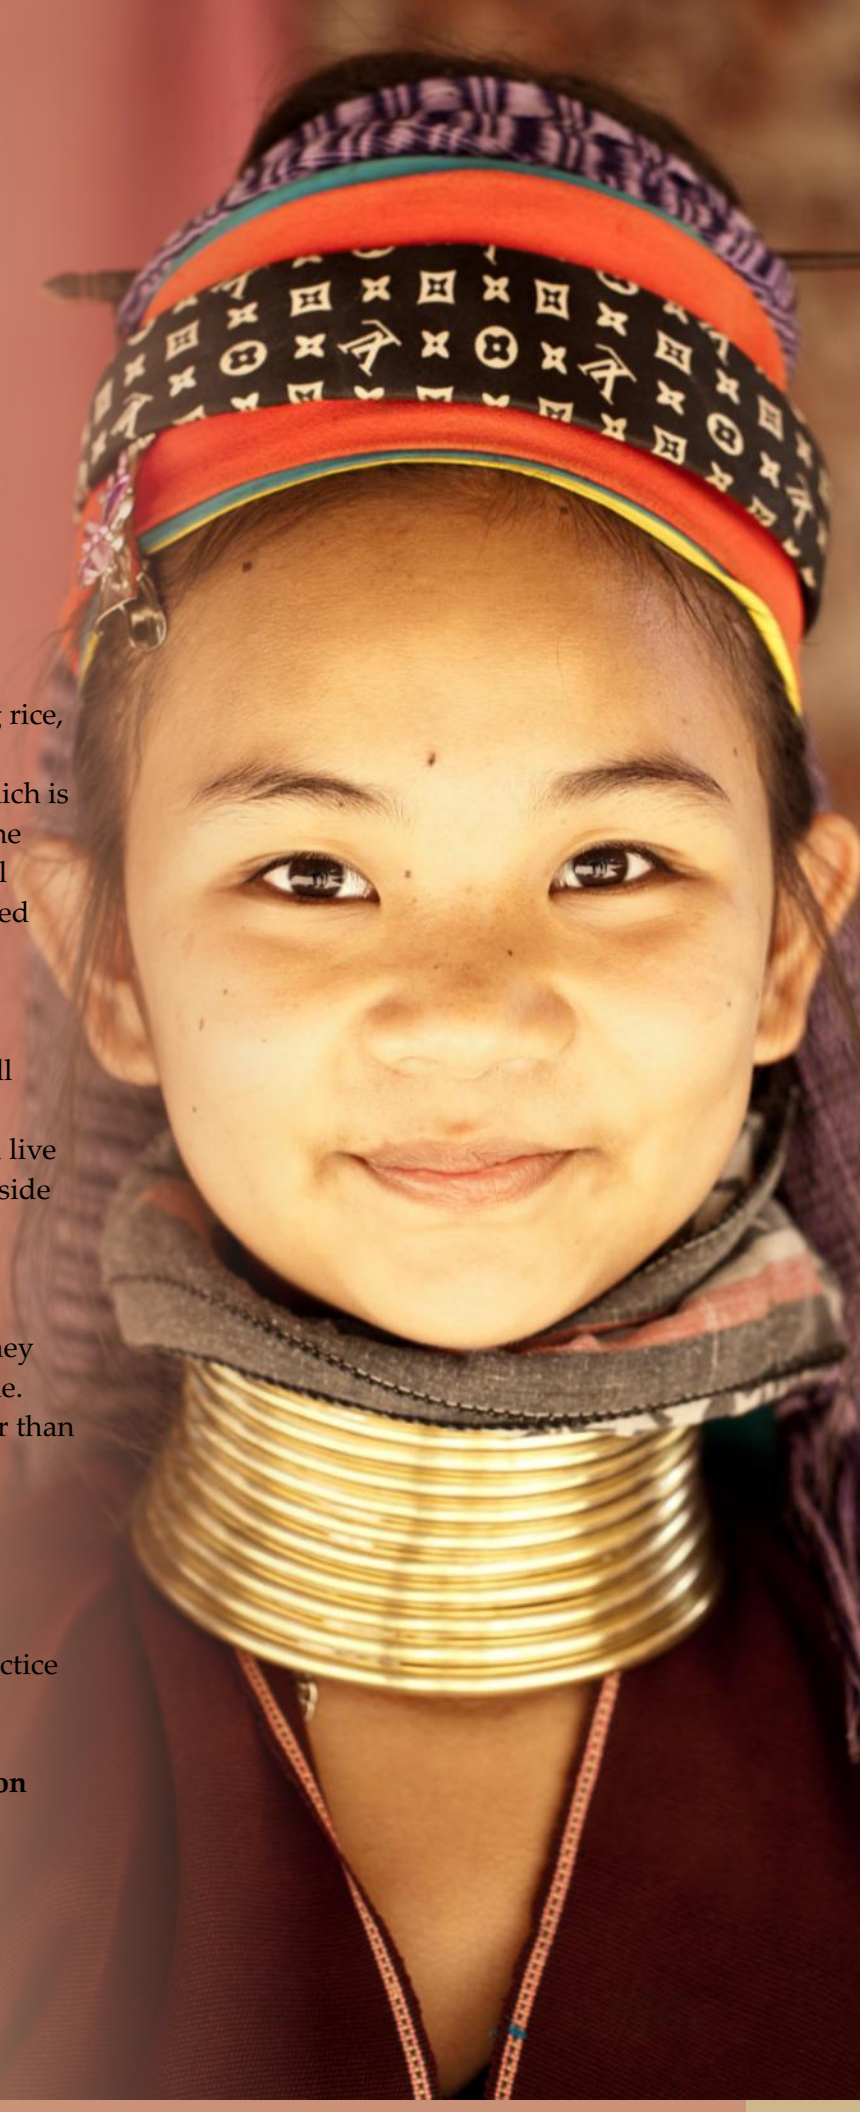

Visit the Pa Dong tribe. The Pa Dong relies on farming rice, tea and tobacco cultivation. Certain Pa Dong females 'elongate' their necks from an early age with brass, which is coiled around their necks to give a brass ring effect. The greater number of coils is believed to enhance physical beauty and increase aesthetic appeal. Wearing the coiled brass rings is considered an "honor" and is a privilege awarded to females who are born on a full moon.

You will also visit an Akha (Akha, Ekaw) and Lahu hill tribe village. Akha villages are distinguished by their carved wooden gates with guardian spirits. The Akha live in raised houses, within which one small room is set aside for paying respect to ancestors.

"Lahu" means "hunter" and the Lahu (Mussur) pride themselves on their skills in hunting and trapping. They are also famous for their knowledge of herbal medicine. The Lahu are an independent people, physically larger than the members of the other tribes, but rather than their greater stature leading to aggressiveness, they love entertainment and the easy life.

You will then visit a Palong Village. Attractions of this village are the women who wear waisthoops. This practice is believed to uphold legendary mysteries.
